Nippon Life Insurance Company of America: Questions and Answers

The Affordable Care Act (ACA) requires that every provider of Minimum Essential Coverage (MEC), including Nippon Life Insurance Company of America (Nippon Life Benefits), report certain information about covered individuals to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and furnish a statement to those individuals directly. The information furnished and reported is used by individuals and the IRS to verify the months, if any, in which individuals were covered by MEC.

These ACA information reporting requirements were first effective for MEC provided in 2015. With respect to calendar year 2020 fully-insured major-medical group coverage issued by us, Nippon Life Insurance Company of America, we will mail statements to covered individuals by March 2, 2021 and file information returns with the IRS by the required deadline established by the IRS.

Please note that employers and/or individuals may also have reporting and/or other obligations under ACA and/or other applicable law, and should consult with their qualified legal and/or tax advisors for guidance with respect to these laws/requirements and how it may impact them.
